

A Miracle Instrument of Peace.....Michael J Tamura 09/18/14

From the moment the bow first kissed its strings, Rev. Patrick McCollum's miracle violin resonated to an entirely different sphere of life. Without a doubt, it is not of this world, but here to help guide us home, where we each long to be. It is said that a truly fine violin is destined to find its rightful owner, yet this one can never be owned, it can only be shared with all. For, how can any of us own eternity?

I sat, listening in awe, as the simple melody played on this extraordinary instrument instantly metamorphosed into a symphony of healing, reaching ever more deeply into the region of my heart, where words and thoughts disappear into the eternity of peace. Its voice is the voice of life calling to that one life that flows within each of us, beyond the illusory barriers of gender, lifestyle, race, creed, nationality or political leanings. Its song is the song of angels reminding us of our divine heritage, that we are never lost, never alone, that peace and joy are our inheritance that we are here to share with one another.

When I was offered the great fortune to hold and bless this gift of peace to the world, I felt the river of life itself pulse through it. Pure joy welcomed me into its loving embrace, the Divine Mother tenderly stroking her one beloved child - all her children in the world. In that moment, I heard her say, "This instrument of peace shall be played by a woman to birth into this world a new, unconditional receptivity to peace that can only come from the experience of spirit."

Its music will resonate through your heart and speak to your eternal soul. It will heal what is divided in you and call to you to raise yourself up out of your isolation and return home. Home is where your heart is and it is the true residence of peace everlasting and the limitless joy that it offers.

I invite you to learn about the miracle journey of how Rev. McCollum came to make this violin and discover for yourself its heavenly voice that is destined to reach every corner of this world. Only through miracles can we hope to establish the peace of heaven upon this earth and this violin is certainly a miracle instrument of peace.

May the light of truth illuminate your every step and God's Love guide you in your every act. Peace be with you always. With gratitude and love,

Michael J Tamura
